PepsiCo's Food for Good program provides food to communities in need

Activity: Food for Good, Pepsico's signature nutrition operation, was created more than a decade ago by a group of enterprising employees who wanted to leverage the logistical know-how and technical expertise of PepsiCo—one of the world's largest food and beverage companies in the world—to help get food to those in need.

Purpose: Improve accessibility to basic human needs for nourishment within local communities.

Inspiration: An empowered employee base was able to reapply their business know-how to solve community gaps/needs.
